

We at Thani Ayahuasca Retreat like to keep an open dialogue with our clients in regards to their stay, what they need to be aware of and what we know is best for their transformation. This comes from years of practicing our particular technique. It is important to read through the following terms and conditions to ready yourself for a positive and safe experience at our ayahuasca retreat.

The medicine is 100% authentic from the Amazon using only ayahuasca and chacruna. It is a pure concoction, in that, only the two plants are used. It is the duty of the shamans and their assistants to decide the dose for each participant, please be respectful of their opinion. If a participant feels they would like less or more, they may ask and discretion is up to the shaman. Note, no member of Thani Ayahuasca Retreat will ever make any participant take more than they would like to.

Furthermore, participating in the ceremonies is a voluntary act and you are not obligated to do so. As long as you have not taken the medicine, once the medicine has been taken, it is enforced you stay in the care of our healers. This is for your safety and ours.

Our expert healers are representatives speaking for our company, and at any moment may exclude a participant from the ceremony. Reasons for exclusion are perceived impairment physically or psychologically. The specific whys vary from person to person, the ayahuasca can react with other substances and/or psychological meltdowns, both can lead to dangerous health risks during the ceremony. It is important to us to avoid these reactions at all costs.

To continue in regards to physical or psychological problems it is important to understand ayahuasca is a therapy. However, it does not mean it is a replacement therapy for psychiatric, medical, psychotherapeutic treatment or physical therapies. It is an additional therapy, to compliment and facilitate the current therapy you may be practicing. We must be informed of any therapies you are undergoing before your entrance to the retreat center.

Before any retreat we require a full medical form and questionnaire of health be completed. These are then reviewed by our medical staff. Please answer questions honestly and we can better serve you in your journey towards personal development.
